Advanced Praise for ONE LAST LOOK:

-Booklist

Attorney Clare Westbrook and homicide detective Tony Sonterra are back in ONE LAST LOOK (Pocket Books; Original Trade Paperback; January 3, 2006; $13.00), Linda Lael Miller’s conclusion to the contemporary romantic suspense series that started with the New York Times bestsellers DON'T LOOK NOW and NEVER LOOK BACK. The Arizona desert is steaming up with their adventures!

Clare Westbrook is a survivor who built her law practice from sheer determination—and an unexpected inheritance. Now Clare, carrying her lover Tony Sonterra’s child, has taken the biggest risk of all: saying “yes” to his marriage proposal and finally burying her life-long commitment phobia. So why is fear running through her veins and haunting her dreams? When Jimmy Ruiz is found murdered, Sonterra is devastated—the sixteen-year-old was like a son to him—and he vows to get the coyotes, criminals in the brutal business of smuggling Mexican nationals over the border. But cleaning up the desert scum means heading up a federal task force and moving from Phoenix to small-town Arizona. Sonterra's passion for justice blazes as strongly as his sensual hunger for his bride-to-be—but now their future, and that of their unborn child, is on the line in a place called Dry Creek. . . .
